

Nottinghamshire Safeguarding Adults Competency Framework and Learning Pathway

The Nottinghamshire Safeguarding Adults Board (NSAB) has approved the safeguarding adults' competency framework and learning pathway document. It has been updated to reflect changing practice and legislation, including the Care Act 2014 and the Mental Capacity Act 2005 and is based on the third edition of the National Competency Framework for Safeguarding Adults updated by Bournemouth University.

It should be used to enable partner agencies to review and assure the Board that different staff groups are competent to an appropriate level and accessing appropriate learning and development opportunities to support this. It is also designed as a guidance tool for staff to help them identify sources of learning and development opportunities, allowing them to achieve the relevant competency. Partner organisations will be able to utilise this document when completing the Safeguarding Adults Self-Assessment and Assurance Framework (SAAF) and others may find it useful as part of their audit process for demonstrating staff competencies.

The framework provides agreed minimum standards regarding competence levels that are applicable to all partner agencies, and it is recognised that staff with specific roles and responsibilities may have additional competence requirements,

This is a live document and learning opportunities will be updated as they are identified and it will be reviewed annually or in the light of any changes to legislation or guidance.

Using the Pathway

The learning pathway incorporates national standards; supports local strategic aims and promotes the need for cultural change for agencies who support adults at risk. The learning opportunities outlined are based upon minimum standards and what outcomes specific groups of staff should be capable of achieving. The levels of competence those groups of staff should hold remains the responsibility of each organisation to measure with their own performance management processes.

The pathway profiles four groups of staff which may have different levels of responsibility to safeguard people. The lists of job roles within each group is not exhaustive or exclusive to those suggested. Each grouping is a guide and some roles may overlap and each organisation needs to identify the necessary capability that staff may require in their organisation.

The pathway goes some way to acknowledge and respond to the challenges in balancing service delivery with service development. Learning and development is more than just attending a course. Training courses in the context of this pathway are seen as part of a bigger picture and seen as a premium learning solution. Managers and staff should use the learning pathway as a tool to help them to respond to a learning need and not be solely reliant upon training courses. To supplement the pathway, there is a suggested document reading list and useful websites to facilitate self-directed learning and inform action learning groups.

The four staff groups identified are:

Staff group A Members of this group have a responsibility to contribute to safeguarding adults, but do not have specific organisational responsibility or statutory authority to intervene.

Staff group B

This group have considerable professional and organisational responsibility for safeguarding adults. They have to be able to act on concerns and contribute appropriately to local and national policies, legislation and procedures. This group needs to work within inter or multi-agency contexts.

Staff group C

This group is responsible for ensuring the management and delivery of safeguarding adult services is effective and efficient. In addition they will have oversight of the development of systems, policies and procedures within their organisation to facilitate good working partnerships with allied agencies to ensure consistency in approach and quality of service.

Staff group D

This group is responsible in ensuring their organisation is fully committed to safeguarding adults at all levels, and have in place appropriate systems and resources to support this work in an intra and inter agency context
