

Books Connect

Welcome to the Reading Pack

“Books can be read in isolation, but when shared with others they are much more enjoyable”

A reading group is a great way of sharing the pleasure of reading and inspiring us to try something different; there is a huge wealth of reading out there!

There are different types of groups from reading chains to listening groups; some which meet in libraries, or at work, some that meet in pubs. So choose which works best for you – or start one of your own.

East Midlands Libraries have produced this pack with information on what groups there are in your area, hints and tips on running a group, suggestions for titles and what the library can do for you. Your local library can offer a range of services to support your reading group, from advice in the selection of books, book loans and space to meet.

So good luck, enjoy and do ask if we can help.

For further information about library support for reading groups in your area, please contact: