This easy read document tells you how county councillors are elected.

We will tell you about:

- What county councillors are
- How councillors are chosen
- Who can vote
- What photo ID is accepted
- Where to get more information or help

We have a separate easy read document about Nottinghamshire County Council and other types of local democracy.

What are County Councillors?

Nottinghamshire has 66 councillors, and each councillor represents 1 of 56 areas called electoral divisions.

The role of county councillors is to:

- use their knowledge and views to make council decisions
- represent the interests of local people

- make sure that services the council provide are working well
- help local people find services and information

They do this by:

- going to meetings and being on committees
- working closely with other organisations that are based in their area
- holding regular meetings (surgeries) so the public can tell them about problems, to ask or give advice.

Nottinghamshire County Council has a person who leads the council and represents it to other organisations.

The councillors vote to pick a person to be the leader of the council.

How are councillors chosen?

People vote for councillors every 4 years.

The last election took place on Thursday 1 May 2025.

The next election is scheduled to take place on Thursday 3 May 2029.

Who can vote?

You need to be over the age of 16 to register, but you won't be able to vote until your 18th birthday.

To vote in county council elections, you also need to be a British citizen or an Irish citizen.

A citizen is a person who belongs to a particular country by birth or naturalisation.

You can also vote if you have permission to enter or stay in the UK, Channel Islands or Isle of Man, or don't need permission, and you are:

- a Commonwealth citizen, or
- a citizen of Denmark, Luxembourg, Poland, Portugal or Spain.

Other EU citizens can vote if they have continued to have permission to enter or stay in the UK since 31 December 2020.

Vote

You cannot vote in county council elections if you live abroad, or if you are in prison after being convicted of an offence.

If you meet the conditions, you can register to vote using the online form on the GOV.UK website.

What Photo ID is accepted?

You need to have photo ID to vote at a polling station. Not all types of photo ID can be used.

You can only use ID that is on the list of acceptable ID managed by the Electoral Commission.

These include driving licences from:

- the United kingdom (UK)
- the Channel Islands
- the Isle of Man
- an EEA state

You can also use passports from:

- the United Kingdom (UK)
- the Channel Islands
- the Isle of Man
- a British Overseas Territory
- an EEA state (including Irish passport card)

If you do not have photo ID from this list, you can apply for a free Voter Authority Certificate.

You can also apply for a Voter Authority Certificate if you no longer look like the photo on your ID, or if the name on your photo ID is different from your name on the electoral register.

You can apply for a Voter Authority Certificate using the online form at GOV.UK.

Where can I find more information or help?

Elections are managed by friendly and helpful staff in district and borough councils. They are very keen to help people to vote.

You can let them know before the election if you need help to vote, or if you have any questions.

My Vote My Voice is an advocacy group set up by United Response, Dimensions, Mencap and Ambitious About Autism.

They have a set of easy read documents to make sure that everyone, including people with learning difficulties and autistic people, has the information and support they need to understand their right to vote.
